SURPRISE DELIVERY

The words 'unexpected guest' took on a new meaning for local woman Mary Stewart and her friend Rena recently.

On their late-night return from a visit to relatives on June 7th, Mary, who was nine months pregnant, suddenly realised that her new arrival was well on the way. She had no time to take off her coat, let alone call an ambulance, so her friend Rena rolled up her sleeves and calmly delivered the bouncing baby girl.

Mary, who has four other children said later: "There can't be many women who can say they had a baby with their coat on. Everything happened so fast that we didn't even have time to look at the clock, but I think Kylie was born just around midnight."

Despite her unconventional birth, baby Kylie was pronounced none the worse for her experience, and is now a lusty six-week old. Which is much to the relief of stand-in midwife Rena who said: "Although I am a proud grannie of three, I was still a wee bit worried at the time in case anything went wrong."

Craigmillar Opportunities Trust PROJECT CO-ORDINATOR

£ 12,729 - £ 13,902

The Trust has been established, by a Partnership of public and private sector agencies, to develop new training and employment opportunities in Craigmillar, Edinburgh.

A project leader is required to lead a small staff team in enlarging local employment opportunities, developing training initiatives, and supporting local businesses.

The person appointed will have management skills, and a background in training, community development, or economic project work, together with experience of the needs of deprived urban communities.

The post is funded through the Government's Urban Programme. Further details from Lothian Regional Development Authority, 12 St Giles Street, Edinburgh, 031 - 229 9292, ext. 3432. Written applications should be submitted by Monday August 7, 1989.
